

About the Authors

Dr. Mohammad Tarikul Islam is an Associate Professor of Government and Politics at the Jahangirnagar University in Bangladesh. Meanwhile Dr. Islam has been associated with the University of Oxford, the University of Cambridge and School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London in different prestigious capacities.

Abesh Chatterjee is presently working as a part of the Teaching Faculty in the Department of History of Chakdaha College, affiliated to University of Kalyani in West Bengal, India. He is also doing his doctoral work from Presidency University, Kolkata, India in the Department of History. His areas of interest are architecture of Ancient India and other archaeological findings associated to it especially Temple architecture. Along with this History of Indian Movies and especially mainstream movies also gains by attention. His specialisations are Modern India encapsulating the Permanent Settlement in Bengal, History of Newspapers of Bengal. Presently, he is writing his doctoral thesis on Revolt of 1857 and its reflection upon the literary genre.

Aliul Hoque is an Assistant Professor of Department of Political Science, Chakdaha College, affiliated to University of Kalyani in West Bengal, India. His areas of interest are Indian Politics, International Relations. His papers have been published in several journals.

Ambalika Biswas teaches English literature in the Department of English, Rabindra Mahavidyalaya, Champadanga, Hooghly. She has also taught at Royal Thimphu College, Thimphu Bhutan, under the Royal University of Bhutan from 2011 to 2013. Her areas of interest are Gender Studies, Dalit Literature, and Indian Literature.

Mithun Sarkar is an Assistant Professor at Department of Philosophy, Chakdaha College, Chakdaha, Nadia, West Bengal, India. His areas of interest are: Western Logic, Western Epistemology, Environmental Ethics, Gender Studies, Indian Contemporary Philosophy, etc.

Dr. Sabina Jesmin is presently working as an Assistant Professor in the department of Philosophy in Chakdaha College. She has completed her M.Phil and Ph.D in Philosophy from Rabindra Bharati University. Her papers have been published in two journals. She also holds the credit of writing chapters in several edited books. She has presented numerous papers in several national and international seminars. Her areas of interest are primarily epistemology, practical ethics and women empowerment.